EDUCATION

PhD in Education

Cultural and Curricular Studies Emphasis, 2014 Chapman University, Orange, CA
Dissertation: "Understanding Athletic Trainers' Concussion Management and Return to Learn Recommendations: A Mixed Methods Study"
PhD in Education Distinguished Doctoral Student Award, Chapman University (2014)
PhD in Education Fellowship, Chapman University (2010, 2011, 2012)
Mine and Gonsakulto Scholarship Recipient, Far West Athletic Trainers' Association (2013)

Master of Arts in Teaching

Secondary Teachers' Credential: Biology & Health, 2007 Chapman University, Orange, CA
Thesis titled: "Student and teacher collaboration to create an innovative application-based health curriculum"

Bachelor of Arts

Kinesiology with an Emphasis in Athletic Training, 2004 Chapman University, Orange, CA
Honors: Magna Cum Laude
CAATE Accredited Entry-Level Athletic Training Program

TEACHING AND PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Assistant Professor, Co-Clinical Coordinator

August 2015 to Present

California State University, Fullerton, Kinesiology Department

- Dedicated to facilitating students' learning as it pertains to injury assessment knowledge, clinical skill development, facets of health-related quality of life, and the athletic training profession. This includes but is not limited to student research collaborations, mentoring, scholarship, and continued professional development in subject matter.
- Pedagogical strategies include the use of patient care scenarios, oral practical exams, and hands-on skills to engage learners in clinical skill development, demonstration of patient care related skills, and problem solving through questioning and case-based scenarios.
- Courses Taught
 - KNES 200: Foundations of Athletic Training (3 units)
 - KNES 367: Clinical Proficiencies in Athletic Training I (2 units)
 - KNES 369: Clinical Proficiencies in Athletic Training III (2 units)
 - KNES 374: Clinical Diagnosis of the Upper Extremity and Cervicothoracic Spine (3 units)
 - KNES 468: Clinical Proficiencies in Athletic Training IV (2 units)
 - KNES 499: Qualitative Methodology & Returning to Learning After Concussion
 - KNES 599: Survey Development and Piloting: Perceptions and Experiences of Faculty with Academic Adjustments following a Concussion.
 - KNES 599: Interview Development and Piloting: Integration of Patient Reported Outcomes into the Athletic Training Clinic at CSUF

Assistant Professor, Clinical Coordinator

July 2014 to June 2015

University of La Verne, Kinesiology Department, La Verne, CA

- Committed to advancing students' knowledge within the Kinesiology department. This involved course instruction, assistance in the preparation of 12 undergraduate kinesiology student theses, and coordination and monitoring of clinical experiences for athletic training students.

- Advised 6 traditional Kinesiology undergraduate students in general education planning and graduate school preparation.
- Courses Taught
 - KINE 235: Fieldwork & Foundations of Athletic Training (4 units)
 - KINE 328: Evaluation and Assessment of Head and Spinal Injuries (4 units)
 - KINE 400: General Medical Conditions in Athletic Training (2 units)

Athletic Trainer/Consultant

July 2013-2015

Sports Concussion Institute, Anaheim, CA

- Collaborated in a team-based approach with healthcare professionals during the development of the Institute's return-to-play, return-to-learn, and telemedicine protocols
- Supervised and provided guided instructions for baseline ImpACT testing at local schools
- Assisted physicians, neuropsychologists, and athletic trainers with post-concussion injury exams (ImpACT, BioSway balance testing, Sway Balance Application), clearance for return to play
- Developed materials and patient forms with clinicians for the selection of academic adjustments

Instructor of Athletic Training

June 2010 to May 2014

Chapman University, College of Educational Studies, Athletic Training Education, Orange, CA

- Dedicated to assisting in student research, mentoring, scholarship, and collaboration with colleagues in the areas of concussion management, sport safety
- Developed multi-modal instructional activities to facilitate in students' learning of evidence-based healthcare practices in athletic training
- Courses Taught
 - AT 162: First Aid and CPR
 - AT 192: Introduction to Athletic Training & Sports Medicine
 - AT 193: Introduction to Clinical Skills Lab
 - AT 204 & 204L: Foundations of Athletic Training (Lecture and Lab)
 - AT 296 & 297: Beginning Fieldwork
 - AT 301/KINE 301: Kinesiology
 - AT 302/KINE 302: Kinesiology Lab
 - AT 308 & AT 308L: Evaluation of Lower Extremity Injuries (Lecture & Lab)
 - AT 309: Evaluation of Upper Extremity Injuries
 - AT 396 & 397: Intermediate Fieldwork
 - AT 495 & 496: Advanced Fieldwork
 - AT 498L: Senior Capstone Lab

GRANTS

Caring for Students after Concussion: A Collaborative Approach to Return to School

Primary Investigator. 2017-2018 Jr/Sr Intramural Grant (Course Release). Funded. April 2017. This investigation aims to explore the functioning of concussion management teams to enhance the support provided to a student upon return to school after concussion. This is a collaborative project with a CSUF graduate student and researchers across institutions.

Exploring Differences in Documentation Practices of Athletic Trainers: Future Implications for Ongoing Education and Improving Clinical Practice

Primary Investigator. FWATA Research & Grants Foundation ($2,165). Funded. April 2017. This purpose of this study is to explore athletic trainers' patient care documentation behaviors (paper versus electronic-strategies) in order to capture documentation mechanics, identify perceived barriers, and develop recommendations for routine and thorough patient care documentation.

Documentation Behaviors Among Athletic Trainers: Understanding The Differences Between Electronic And Paper-Based Documentation

Primary Investigator. FWATA Research & Grants Foundation ($3,000). Not funded. July 2016
The purpose of this investigation is to understand athletic trainers' perceptions of and behaviors while utilizing electronic versus paper-based documentation strategies.

Secondary School Personnel's Perceptions of and Experiences with Academic Accommodations after Concussion: A Link to Patient-Centered Care and Best Practices

Consultant. National Athletic Trainers' Association Research & Grants Foundation ($49,971) Not funded. July 2015.

The purpose is to examine secondary school personnel's knowledge, familiarity, perceptions, and experiences related to academic accommodations for student-athletes after concussion.

Using a third-party reimbursement model for estimating health care cost savings and potential revenue generation for Southern California high schools.

Co-Investigator. FWATA Research & Grants Foundation ($2944). Funded. April 2014

The purpose of the pilot investigation is to establish an EMR database in three secondary schools in California with short and long-term goals related to a larger outcomes-based research project.

Supporting student-athletes after a concussion: A survey of high school athletic trainers' current school-based concussion management practices.

Principal Investigator. Chapman University Graduate Student Scholarly/Creative Grant ($750). Funded. April 2013

The purpose of the study is to develop and distribute a survey to athletic trainers employed in secondary schools regarding their concussion management practices, including strategies to support a student's return-to-learn.
