5. Looking back, what were the best things about your classes/degree program

Response Text
1	I loved my time in the program, and enjoyed each course, and found them all extremely valuable. I loved the group projects, the relationships that I built while attending, and the openness and feedback from all instructors.	Feb 24, 2011 7:18 AM
2	I believe that the best asset the counseling program at Fullerton is the talented staff and what they bring to the classes. If a teacher is passionate about the subject they do an excellent job teaching.	Feb 24, 2011 7:18 AM
3	I feel the professors are very knowledgeable in their field and practice. I had high respect for each professor. Also, each class was useful and necessary. I never took a class that I felt was unnecessary or a waste of time.	Feb 24, 2011 7:20 AM
4	I found that our professors personal experiences in the field were very helpful in applying theories in class. The material selected for every class was thoughtfully picked by each professor for specific reasons. I felt like my instructors were really invested in helping me develop my professional skills as a therapist. They were always approachable and willing to assist me in any way that I needed support. 70	The Professors and the unity I felt with most of them.	Mar 1, 2011 6:44 AM
71	The support and genuine care of the professors for the students; actually practicing counseling techniques; evening classes; assignments were always relevant and enriching.	Mar 1, 2011 4:42 PM
72	The caring and nurturing environment to learn from both students and faculty. Everyone is empathic and willing to work together and support each other.	Mar 2, 2011 7:13 AM
73	The professors definitely provided support and personal interest in their students and continue to do so to this day. The class sizes were good too.	Mar 2, 2011 7:36 AM
74	Self-growth, humanistic/client-centered approach and attitude, overall good basic foundation. Group and couple and group couns were outstanding partly due to the professors teaching them. There were many demonstrations by the professors teaching these courses. The cohort experience was great. Overall, professors were supportive.	Mar 2, 2011 7:48 AM
75	A few professors who went above and beyond there duty. Professors who made time and made it evident that they loved there profession.	Mar 2, 2011 7:56 AM

77	Professors who genuinely cared for the program and students!	Mar 2, 2011 5:01 PM
78	Every class taught by Dr. Shepard. Drs. Cervantes, Englar-Carlson and Chopra were also very good. Dr. Nguyen was good at child centered play therapy, but did not cover a very broad spectrum of other methodologies/theories.	Mar 2, 2011 5:23 PM
79	The faculty was definitely the best part of the program. They were always willing to go the extra mile to help students.	Mar 2, 2011 6:25 PM
80	A well rounded program.	Mar 2, 2011 6:30 PM
81	The hands on experience was the most helpful. The practicum classes definitely prepared me for not only working with people but for receiving feedback. The self reflections that we did also helped and being in supervision now as a professional is a lot easier. I also appreciate the amount of clinical skills that we learned, as most of my current colleagues did not receive a smidge of what we received at CSUF.	Mar 2, 2011 6:52 PM
82	Professors had great experience and insight. Great classroom experience.	Mar 2, 2011 6:57 PM
83	incredible teachers	Mar 2, 2011 7:00 PM
84	The professors were all excellent. I really appreciated being able to learn from them and talk with some of them outside of class. I enjoyed being an officer in the honors society. I felt that overall, everyone in the program was very supportive.	Mar 2, 2011 8:59 PM
85	I enjoyed the knowledge of the professors, the commorodity between the classmates, and the small class size which lends to insight, discussions and interations.	Mar 2, 2011 9:47 PM

Response Text
91	That our professors treated us as though we were on the same level (not as though we were inferior to them). I enjoyed that I was comfortable talking to all my professors, because they were open and understanding. Number one, they were all still passionate about counseling which definitely showed in their teaching ability.	Mar 3, 2011 4:27 PM
92	The cohort style of classes, having courses on child counseling, psychopharmacology and couples opportunities for extracurricular involvement (GCSA, CSI Kappa Omega).	Mar 3, 2011 11:40 PM
93	Culture Class with Dr. Leah Brew. We discussed some serious issues that are very difficult to talk about. In acknowledging our biases and differences as well as accepting, I had a greater understanding of myself in the world. Knowing my values, biases, and differences helps me to identify what issues are my own and which belong to the client.	Mar 3, 2011 11:59 PM
94	I learned a lot from the teaching of Dr. Shepard, and Dr. Englar-Carlson. I also feel learning how to do play therapy and sandtray were invaluable.	Mar 4, 2011 3:29 AM
95	Professors who took a genuine interest in students. Throughout I felt very supported and cared for.	Mar 4, 2011 4:00 AM
96	the specialized classes including child/play therapy, groups, couples...they were all very interesting.	Mar 4, 2011 6:21 AM
97	I think the best thing about the program was the quality of teaching and the Humanistic approach. Being out in the field for a few years I am able to see how this sets CSUF counselors apart.	Mar 4, 2011 6:40 AM
98	Level of engagement with the professors and their own level of expertise	Mar 4, 2011 6:11 PM

6. Looking back, what changes would you suggest in the classes/degree

Response Text
1	I really can not think of any significant changes to make.	Feb 24, 2011 7:18 AM
2	I feel that the teacher must be passionate about the subject, without this not to much is taken from the class. My family systems class, and theories class are pretty much obsolete in my brain because the teaching was not great.	Feb 24, 2011 7:18 AM
3	I wouldn't really change much about the classes. However, I would emphasize the importance of the play therapy class since the great majority of the positions I encountered while searching for a job entailed working with children.	Feb 24, 2011 7:20 AM
4	I would suggest fewer group presentations for each class due to the difficulty in coordinating with all group members and everyone's schedules. In some class, maybe Practicum or 500, it would be beneficial for professors to start preparing students for the realities of the often times difficult and disheartening road to licensure.	Feb 24, 2011 7:25 AM
5	More role play	Feb 24, 2011 7:34 AM

6	Must teach students to learn how to complete DMH paperwork, in a timely manner. I went to several interviews where I had to acknowledge that since I didn't work for the county, I didn't have the opportunity to learn. Hence, I had to go and find on the Internet, various forms and decipher the DMH-codes the best that I could. Process notes using SOAP is not enough, treatment plans would also be a good focus. Mock job interview would help future MFTI feel more at ease at the competitive and often chaotic environment (ie., interviews are held in one large room with several people being interviewed at the same time is challenging, and reminded me of the reality show, "Survivor.", Treatment plans and reasons to support yows where several tables are set up in a room and many people are being interviewed at the same time is becoming the norm. This is how Didi Hirsch conducts their 1st and 2nd interview (it's chaotic which forces the interviewee to stay focus and try to remain calm). And I didn't like the fact that I had to take several online classes to complete my required classes after I graduated with 48 units vs the required 60.	Feb 24, 2011 8:07 AM
7	More uniformity/consistency in how some classes are presented (ex. 590, 597); speaking with others in my cohort, there seemed to be appreciable differences in coursework from one professor to another.	Feb 24, 2011 9:10 AM
8	add electives - counseling the elderly, counseling special needs, counseling and end of life issues, etc...	Feb 24, 2011 2:07 PM
9	more integration of current research and trends in the field; guest speakers who are practitioners of various orientations; more substantive final project/thesis	Feb 24, 2011 2:08 PM
10	I would suggest them to take Spanish classes if they are not Spanish bilingual. Because the job market is so discriminating right now!	Feb 24, 2011 3:44 PM
11	Make the classes apply more to real world situations, more training on diagnosis, treatment plan writing	Feb 24, 2011 3:44 PM
12	Report writing, progress notes/tx plan/assessment should be exercised more than self-exploration/reflection projects.	Feb 24, 2011 4:02 PM
13	COUN 524 should review other forms of play therapy (current only covers client-centered) as most agencies are looking for short-term therapy. COUN 520 reviews theories but I felt that there were no solid "techniques" or "interventions" that could be applied to our clients.	Feb 24, 2011 4:04 PM
14	the addiction class lacked enthusiasm	Feb 24, 2011 4:04 PM
15	some changes have already been made (adding more coursework like in play therapy). I also think coursework should be added on owning and operating your own business/private practice.	Feb 24, 2011 4:06 PM
16	Increase classes on addiciton, legal and ethical, community mental health, recovery	Feb 24, 2011 4:38 PM
17	I became frustrated at the way the classes were managed, because due to budget problems we were given conflicting information about when classes would be avaiable and what we were allowed to take. I would suggest a clear policy of what order classes must be taken in and how they should be taken.	Feb 24, 2011 4:40 PM
18	My biggest challenge was that I had 511 in the first semester, and then didn't actually start working in practicum for another year. It was a long time in between.	Feb 24, 2011 5:14 PM
19	Reduce the taping requirements for 530 and 584 to two tapes.	Feb 24, 2011 5:38 PM
20	Taking out the busywork. Specifically pertaining to Ms. Mejias class's.	Feb 24, 2011 5:40 PM
21	More preparation on treatment planning, writing notes	Feb 24, 2011 5:48 PM
22	Culture, at least as it was when I took it, was a joke. I don't believe I learned anything useful about counseling people from diverse cultural backgrounds. I was also offended that we were told to purchase a book that we never once used or discussed in class.	Feb 24, 2011 6:26 PM

6. Looking back, what changes would you suggest in the classes/degree

Response Text
23	More hands in counseling couples and families. Students will benefit more from role-playing {practicing} versus just learning through textbooks and lectures.	Feb 24, 2011 6:34 PM
24	Although the experiential processes were very important, when I entered practicum and met students from other universities, they seemed much more educated on theories, interventions, and techniques. The educational aspect needs to also be held more important.	Feb 24, 2011 6:47 PM
25	Have classes that focus specifically on child counseling and therapeutic interventions.	Feb 24, 2011 7:06 PM
26	Additional training on treatment planning	Feb 24, 2011 7:43 PM
27	I really loved the program, I don't think I would changed anything.	Feb 24, 2011 8:28 PM
28	I think that for me the family class needed a bit more actual hands on time.	Feb 24, 2011 9:18 PM
29	More advising and support throughout the program between the student and a direct advisor.	Feb 24, 2011 9:35 PM
30	None	Feb 25, 2011 12:42 AM
31	More practice of clinical skills development (practicum)	Feb 25, 2011 2:15 AM
32	More on family counseling and Couples counseling	Feb 25, 2011 3:43 AM
33	When I graduated and worked at a clinic, I was not prepared for the paperwork, how to write notes, knowledge of insurance and now I'm in private practice and it would have been nice to have a class on preparation for private practice and laws/ethics that relate to private practice as this was on the licensing exams and I don't recall ever covering it in classes.	Feb 25, 2011 3:53 AM
34	Can't remember.	Feb 25, 2011 4:11 AM
35	Offering more classes each semester instead of every other semester.	Feb 25, 2011 4:26 AM
36	much more emphasis on alcohol and substance abuse, more role playing and practice with family therapy, better follow up after completion of degree to insure help with post grad employment and license prep.	Feb 25, 2011 4:44 AM
37	Class size.	Feb 25, 2011 4:54 AM
38	Classes have too many students.	Feb 25, 2011 5:40 AM
39	More systemic approach taught throughout the classes, I understand the program is gearing up for 2 tracks (MFT and LPC), however, at the time I went through, it was MFT directed (only 1 license at the time), and did not focus significantly on marriage and family therapy. I would have appreciated a distinct course on sex therapy and sexual disorders which often present in tx. Additionally, I think it would be fantastic to add even a one unit course on marketing yourself as a therapist, ie in private practice -- this is much needed!	Feb 25, 2011 6:31 AM
40	More theories..psychodynamic, etc	Feb 25, 2011 3:33 PM
41	none	Feb 25, 2011 4:49 PM
42	More info on paperwork. More prep about what like in different settings ie schools etc.	Feb 25, 2011 5:49 PM
43	I would have liked to have taken the advanced techniques and psychopharmacology classes but graduated before they were made available. Glad to see they are required now. Important to include more on suicide assessment.	Feb 25, 2011 7:34 PM
44	My only suggestion, which I am not sure if this is unique to CSUF or counseling programs in general, is to add more emphasis on community/county based practice and procedures. I feel my education was geared towards working in private practice, which is great, but I felt very overwhelmed by paperwork, working with county-based systems, and working in a community-based clinic.	Feb 25, 2011 7:39 PM
45	Because of the nature of my job, I wish that we would have been instructed in how to perform case management with clients.	Feb 25, 2011 9:27 PM

6. Looking back, what changes would you suggest in the classes/degree

Response Text
46	I can't think of any changes I would make.	Feb 25, 2011 9:42 PM
47	none	Feb 26, 2011 2:46 AM
48	I would suggest a better addictions class. As a recovering addict myself, I found that the male professor explained the treatment in unusual ways that belittled and humiliated the addict, which may have had to do with his obvious unresolved issues with his un-clean addict brother (which he discussed angrily often.) I found that he had little understanding of what addiction means and frequently compared it to his love of ice cream. It made me feel badly for the entire class because they unknowingly left with so little pertinent information, other than learning how chemicals substances react in the brain. I have no personal problem with this teacher, but was profoundly disappointed with what he taught as treatment and had looked so forward to taking his class to really learn how to give therapy to addicts as a specialty. I feel that I now need further training. The methods he described of his former workplace at a treatment center were personally offensive to me, as the treatment staff made anyone in the group who admitted to having cravings change into a humiliating jumpsuit to "identify the poisonous one." The staff and other addicts were instructed to surround this person in a circle and scream at the top of their lungs at them (instead of offering support). Afterward, they were completely ignored all day because they may "poison" the rest of the group (creating isolation and fear.) We witnessed a video of this and I was very disturbed. Sadly, the classmates that I talked to about this just thought it was normal and had no clue that this was not how most treatment centers are run. The popular belief of the 12-step program was belittled as if it rarely worked and it was only briefly touched upon in about 1-2 Powerpoint slides. The most positive experience I found within the class was the group project on a selected substance and quitting something that you enjoy for a period of time to get an A. However, I would preface the "quitting project" with the fact that quitting french fries is not even remotely close to quitting an addictive chemical substance, but gives you a mild hint of what abstaining is actually like. 49	Probably have professors observe other professors. Some were great! Others less?	Feb 26, 2011 3:09 PM
50	Revise the Career Counseling class. Need more current job market information and how to counsel students during tough economic times.	Feb 26, 2011 5:58 PM
51	Although there are financially challenges today, it would be helpfully to have more available counseling centers that welcomed practicum students. It was frustrating to submit multiple letters and not hearing from them. I had to wait for a phone call from school about an available site. I would have like to also been able to experience other counseling sites with specific issues and not stay at one site for the duration of the program.	Feb 26, 2011 6:33 PM
52	none	Feb 26, 2011 7:04 PM
53	smaller class sizes	Feb 26, 2011 8:11 PM
54	I would add some lectures from professional that is currently practicing counseling.	Feb 27, 2011 6:50 AM
55	I would suggest more emphasis on theory and its application. I would also recommend developing a requirement for personal tx and assisting students with finding resources to meet such a requirement. This personal growth seemed lacking and critically important.	Feb 28, 2011 4:37 AM
56	The order the classes had to be taken...for example taking psychopharmacology during a summer session would not have been a good idea as we had to do...or having 1 semester for final project...I don't believe we were prepared...and many of the classes, although valuable to us were not organized in a manner conducive to a cohort program.	Feb 28, 2011 9:29 AM

58	1) Expand on the psychological testing course. 2) A thesis requirement 3) Potentially require multiple subject research design as an option.	Feb 28, 2011 11:50 PM
59	There were some things about being an intern that I would have liked to have been more prepared for, I would have liked to understand from the beginning the struggles that are involved in the internship process and hear from interns about how to best prepare for those.	Mar 1, 2011 3:26 AM
60	how in the heck did Suleman get in the program?	Mar 1, 2011 5:32 AM
61	Nothing, it was great!	Mar 1, 2011 6:44 AM
62	The classes that I rated as "good" did not have many hands-on/ experiential activities, which enriched my learning experience over lectures.	Mar 1, 2011 4:42 PM
63	Information on Department of Mental Health training. The information and knowledge learned within the program is geared toward private practice when most individuals receiving their hours are in jobs that are non profit DMH.	Mar 2, 2011 7:13 AM
64	More classes at various times and more focus on children and play therapy.	Mar 2, 2011 7:36 AM
65	So much in the Psych testing course did not apply to our scope of practice; therefore, more time could have been dedicated on testing we can do in more clear detail. One semester of DSM is not enough. Certain courses (i.e. Individual/family couns. and practicum) lacked enough hands on examples and demonstrations. Certain professors are better qualified to teach the more clinically oriented courses. Furthermore, there wasn't enough focus on theoretical orientation and their actual application.	Mar 2, 2011 7:48 AM
66	DSM should not be allowed to be taken in the summer it's to much and way to important of a course to be condensed. Also I was harassed there by a professor there when I wasn't doing well in class due to being ill for that entire year and working f/t and going to school f/t. I feel I paid for the program and I shouldn't be pulled out of another class to be questioned as to why I received a C on a paper. I ended up with a B in the class and I was ok with this but I guess she was not lol	Mar 2, 2011 7:56 AM
67	So few actual MFT professors. Many of the professors did not have a firm handle of the nuances of being a MFT, what would be ahead for us with testing or even preparing us for the business side of things, including having one's own office or being an intern in PP	Mar 2, 2011 4:58 PM
68	More hrs. in DSM class; more assistance in selection of final project; able to observe professors in mock counseling sessions-great learning tool.	Mar 2, 2011 5:01 PM
69	Dr. Read is extraordinarily intelligent and knowledgeable but extremely disorganized in her ability to teach. She goes off on tangents and I (as many others) felt we actually did not learn much in her classes, which was particularly frustrating because she clearly does know so much. Dr. Sims was completely incompetent as an instructor. A very nice lady but no teaching skills whatsoever.	Mar 2, 2011 5:23 PM
70	I would have loved to have the PPS credential offered along with this program. Not only would it make the program more well rounded, it would also make it competetive with other degree programs at other universities.	Mar 2, 2011 6:25 PM
71	I cannot think of anything except maybe requiring the child abuse class so we don't have to worry about it at a later time.	Mar 2, 2011 6:52 PM
72	The Career Counseling class taught by Dr. Sims was pretty ridiculous at times. I would suggest having someone else teach the class if that's not already happening.	Mar 2, 2011 8:59 PM
73	oh my, it's been 4 years, it's hard to remember! I believe you have made a few changes since I graduated. Most important is to be ready for the MFT exam. I felt the program focused on that, however I have not taken the exam, as I have been focused on raising my children. I hope to return to counseling soon!	Mar 2, 2011 9:47 PM
74	Coun 525... needs to be geared to realistic case situations counselors may face.	Mar 3, 2011 1:50 AM

6. Looking back, what changes would you suggest in the classes/degree

	Response Text
75	I believe Psychopharmacology and Psycho testing could be more interesting, like other classes.	Mar 3, 2011 2:45 AM
76	Some focus on community mental health and more practice on writing psychotherapy notes.	Mar 3, 2011 5:51 AM
77	More in depth instruction on theories	Mar 3, 2011 6:16 AM
78	I think it was good preparation, however in my current employment more info on serious mental illness, child therapy, and use of Evidence Based Practices (we're required to us TFCBT and Triple P).	Mar 3, 2011 6:38 AM
79	I think it would be very useful to have even more counseling practice before practicum. So maybe integrating more role playing in the classes that lead up to practicum. That way when we become trainees we feel more prepared and it is not so anxiety provoking. Also, I think it would be REALLY helpful to have a theories (maybe the same class or a second level theory class) DURING our practicum. Having it before practicum was hard because there wasn't much experience to apply it to. If we had the class while we were doing practicum it would be much easier to learn, and it would be easier to find what theoretical background works for us when working with clients.	Mar 3, 2011 4:27 PM
80	I think the biggest disappointment was not learning much in the career counseling course.	Mar 3, 2011 11:40 PM
81	Career. This class could be so much more but it is seems very "cookie cutter" which required lots of "busy" work. I think interviewing a therapist who works doing career counseling would be helpful like it was in the counseling "500" class.	Mar 3, 2011 11:59 PM
82	More practical training. Greater exposure to diagnosis, treatment planning, and deeper understanding of the various orientations.	Mar 4, 2011 4:00 AM
83	more help from professors regarding after graduation, and licensure concerns.	Mar 4, 2011 6:21 AM
84	I would include play therapy as a course. Most graduates like myself, go on to work as interns in non-profit agencies with children. It is amazing how many people do not know how to play, let alone, how many can play with children.	Mar 4, 2011 6:40 AM
85	I would have liked more training on documentation, how to begin a private practice, and Child and adolescent therapy	Mar 4, 2011 6:11 PM
